Telephone Ordinance.

Mayor R. M. Taylor yesterday returned to City Clerk Ben T. August with his approval, a large batch of ordinances of more or less importance, the most interesting of which was that offered by Councilman Robert Le Masurier to prevent city employes from holding seats in party committees, or acting as election officials.

The batch, however, did not include one allowing a telephone for the Mayor's office, though this may come in late, with or without his paproval and become law.

The list of ordinances returned approved is as follows: The Massurier ordinance; instructing City Attoriey to defend the city against the Western Union Telesraph Company; figher pay of foreman of uper gas works at $100 a month, and increasing pay of a number of employes of the same plant to $2.25 a day; increasing pay of junitor in city courts to $50 amonth; placing the Cavalty Armory, on Seventh Gireet at the disposal of the Richmond Howitzers; placing the city library under the control of the Mayor.

Some time ago the trustee secured from the courts an order directing the sale of the road under a deed of trust. lied forth to trip the light fantastic. The honors of the ball were carried off as easily as the dress had been. So sweet to her was the dress had been. So sweet to her was her triumph in her dazzling costume and so alluring the music and the dance that the dusky dulcinea dailed until dawn. When the fiddles ceased and the lights went out so did the belle of the ball.

Hurrying homeward, she found the household up, and in trepidation asked of the small house girl whether the mistress was up. On being informed that she was the alarmed servant made a dart for the cellar and there proceeded to divest herself of her costly apparel and don that more appropriate to the autocrat of the pois and pans. Before she had completed her change of attrethe mistress learned of her return and joined her, tearing the garments from her in no patient fashion, and 'phoning for an officer.

And now there is a servant looking for a position, a slik dress for sale cheap and an angry 'lady of the house,' with no trust in servants.

South Carolina has seven Democratic representatives, and the closest district in the State at the last election was the Second, where George William Croft, Democrat, received 5,134 votes to 247 for W. S. Dixon, Republican.

Georgia has eleven Democrats in Cosgress, a solid delegation, and only two had opposition at the last election. The closest district, if the word may be used, was the Seventh, in which John W. Maddox received 5,306 votes to 860 cast for S. J. McKnight. Populist.

Louisiana's seven representatives are all Democrats, and there was no opposition to any of them worthy of the name.

The seventeen' representatives from Texas are Democrats. The closest district was the fitteenth, in which John Nanca Garner received 16,542 votes to 10,707 cast for J. C. Scott, Republican.

Arkansas, has seven representatives in Congress and all are Democrats. The one who had the hardest fight at the last election was the third, and in that Hugh Anderson Dinsmore was elected by 4,968 votes to 1,832 cast for W. L. McPherson, Republican.

Of the eleven representatives from Kentucky ten are Democrats. W. Godfrey Hunter, of the eleventh district, is the lone Republican, and he was elected by a plurality over John D. White, a Republican also. The closest district in the Glate from which there is a Democratic representative is probably the ninth, in which James N. Kehoe received 20,823 votes to 18,57 for William H. Casiner, Republican.

Fitteen of the sixteen representatives from Missouri are Democrats. The closest district is the again, in which Dorsey Shackelford; see leventh distorts to 13,133 for J. Filteen of Republican.

Chances Are Small.

From the foregoing it will be seen that the Republicans have small chances of making any inroads on the Democrats in the South. Indeed, it is as likely that the Republicans will lose the Ninth Virginia and the Tenth Missouri, two of the three Republican districts of the South, as that they will capture any which are now Democratic.

PURNELL'S FORTUNE. Penny-in-Slot Machine Made a

True Prediction in His Case, True Prediction in His Case, Just before leaving the city yesterday Federal Judge Purnell, of North Carolina, related a most remarkable incident. During the latter part of May the Judge and his wife, after a stay in this city, were at the Main Street Station waiting for a train, when his attention was called to one of the penny-in-the-slot machines which tells your forture, indicates your weight and plays you a tune, all for one cent.

which tells your fortune, indicates your weight and plays you a tune, all for and cent.

To while away, the time, Mrs. Purnell suggested that the Judge "try his fortune." which he did, and the stereotyped sentence which came in return for the Judge's penny was: "Your fame will spread over this and other lands."

Little thinking that the purphacy might ever come true he put the small plece of raper in his pokethook and had forsotten the inclant until reminded of it a couple of weeks later, when he awake in find himself the most talked of official in the South, by reason of the Dantiels contempt proceedings.

The ticket is now held as a mementa of this extraordinary occurrence. The Judge is not very superstitious, but it is safe to predict that he will keep clear of sict machines, especially those with fortune telling proclivities.

The work in the packing plants of this city was continued on a much larger scale than at any time since the strike has been declared. Many new men have been employed, among whom, it is said, many skilled workmen, and the packers declare they are doing better than they expected they would be able to do at the time the old employes quit work.
